Students! Budgets!
Photographers! Layout!
Sheets! Deadlines!

These are only a few of the exciting experiences which we have met in compiling this year-book. We will always remember what has gone into this book: time, patience, worries and exhaustion. We wrote, rewrote, typed, retyped, edited and re-edited. We attended meetings, consulted both the printer and photographer, and stayed up in the early morning hours trying to calm our thoughts and anxieties over the deadline just one week away. Well, we made it!

It is not a book describing the architecture of the building but rather is the accumulation of our knowledge, our efforts, and our three unforgettable years at Braintree High.

Dedication

The Wampatuck Staff of 1967 wishes to dedicate this year-book to those people who have given their lives, their energies, and their ideas to a cause they have felt would better personal, national, and universal relations. Today, man still pursues his ideals and endeavors to retain the nation's strength. We urge all individuals to make use of their talents in order that man may live in harmony with man.

SANDS OF TIME

The pendulum swings to and fro,
And with each swing, the seconds grow.
Hours, days, and years are born,
And what was once a rosy dawn
Fades like autumn's lively glow.

As a smile becomes a tear
Soon a day becomes a year.
September's joy; October's sigh
Forgotten now; months seem to fly.
Then spring is gone and summer's here.

Nature breathes a sigh again.
Summer bows to fall, and then
On and on the years unfold.
Suddenly you find you're old —
No time to waste and none to spend.

Still the seconds tick away.
"Remember when . . ." you sadly say,
But Time and Hope run hand in hand,
Though through the glass still runs the sand,
New hope is born for brighter days.

— Jean Avallone

Message to the Class of 1967

Among the many excellent quotations from Shakespeare that have great meaning for men and women of all time is that father to son exhortation in Hamlet, Act I, Scene 3 where Polonius admonishes Laertes—

"Neither a borrower, nor a lender be;
For loan oft loses both itself
and friend,
And borrowing dulls the edge of husbandry.
This above all: to thine own self
be true,
And it must follow, as the night
the day,
Thou canst not then be false to any man."

William F. Young

Assistant Superintendent

"The future enters into us, in order to transform itself in us, long before it happens."

—Rainer Maria Rilke

Yours is an era of sit-ins, walk-outs, and marches; riots, rebellion and restlessness; militancy, demands, rights, crises—turmoil! At the same time the world more and more becomes a campus wherein the study of man by man develops rapidly, and significant insights and understandings emerge explosively.

Your lives are a paradox and you may wonder, "Where am I going?" The opportunities and challenges you face are formidable and unique and yours is indeed an age of change. You deplore the "status quo"; you resent the ill-made cliches; and you demand much more of an older generation.

I for one would not wish to live in another time and place. May you accept your challenges courageously and intelligently and may you transform the present into a brilliant future.

Harmon D. Arnold

Walter K. Hjelm

Rotary International is made up of over a half million professional men and business executives in 128 countries all over the world. It has adopted a business code called the four-way test which I recommend to you as a guide in all that you do.

"THE FOUR-WAY TEST"
of the things we think, say or do.

1. Is it the truth?
2. Is it fair to all concerned?
3. Will it build goodwill and better friendships?
4. Will it be beneficial to all concerned?

Social Studies

"No, the Magna Carta was not signed off the shores of Plymouth in 1215 by Columbus. You know that! Yes, it was signed in 1215—by King John of England. You people aren't stupid—you just aren't thinking!" "Since when is Alaska the state most productive in the raising of pine-apples? Are you sure you know what a pineapple is?"

To the social studies department comes the opportunity to teach the history of man, from the past to the present. Geography, American and European civilization, Problems of Democracy, International Relations, and Oriental culture are just a few of the fields which help the student to an understanding of the diversified culture of man.

Foreign Language

The foreign language teachers are especially interested in teaching us—you guessed it!—foreign language.

Russian enables us to communicate with Moscow over the Ham radio; French aids us in bribing the gendarmes; Latin is the language of the future ... when man creates a time machine, he'll be able to speak with the Romans; Spanish is useful if one becomes lost in the Aztec ruins of Mexico.

A.L.M. is useful if you want to know what is for lunch; if you want to know where the library is; if you want to discuss the weather; or, generally, if you want to assimilate yourself with the illiterate populace of a nation.

Joking aside, language has aided us in culture orientation, word derivation, and grammar.

"Do you girls want to be good secretaries or not? Now, let's go . . . fff/ggg/ddd. That finger here, that one there then push!"

Of course, you must learn the sixth foreign language if you want to be a stenographer. No, you don't have to learn how to sit on a lap.

The business course offers a wide selection of subjects, such as typing, bookkeeping, stenotype, and shorthand. All give the student an excellent opportunity to prepare for a future in the rapidly changing world of business.

Where are your white socks? ... In the washer ... Why aren't you wearing them? ... You told me to clean them.

It is here, within the walls of the gymnasium or out on the playground where each student—good or poor, tired or energetic, agile or awkward—faces his rewards and becomes himself—playing, breathing—happy to be free.

Athletics

The athletic department is one of those rare divisions in school services which reach out to all students. Sponsoring both intramural and extra-mural sports activities for Braintree, this department radiates in all directions to serve well and equally both those who find athletics difficult and those who find them a part of their natural instincts. Touch and tackle football, wrestling, gymnastics, basketball, tennis, badminton, field and ice hockey, golf, baseball and softball, track, cross country—shall we go on? Then it's conceded that in this department we find one of the answers to the high-spirited students of Braintree.

Guidance Department

"Good morning! Did you sign up for the SAT's? Fine. And Achievements? That's even better. And you went to the guidance assembly last Monday? Yes, the one on college admission. You are all set, my boy. What do you mean, you aren't going to college?"

Understanding us as individuals, helping us to strengthen our concepts of ourselves and life, assisting the school in programming for our needs, assisting in our development and adjustment through counseling services, and working with the faculty and administration to evaluate and improve the services of the school—these are just five of the vital contributions of Braintree's guidance department.

National Honor Society

This group is representative of the high scholastic achievements BHS has achieved. Not only must each member have high grades in all subjects, but he must also be involved in extracurricular activities and must have been given a good character rating by his teachers. National Honor Society members man the information desk and provide tutoring for all students who express the need for academic aid. National Honor Members begin assemblies and introduce speakers. Braintree is proud of its athletic record; but it is equally proud of its scholastic records. The National Honor Society represents this record.

BRAIN POWER

LE SUPER FRENCH

French National Honor Society

Open to all students who have taken three or more years of French, the French National Honor Society accepts only candidates who have an "A" average in the language as well as high academic achievements in all other subjects and a high character rating. The purpose of this group is to arouse a greater interest in French, language and culture, and deserving students who have gained membership are entitled to go on various field trips. The French National Honor Society is an example of academic achievements in French.

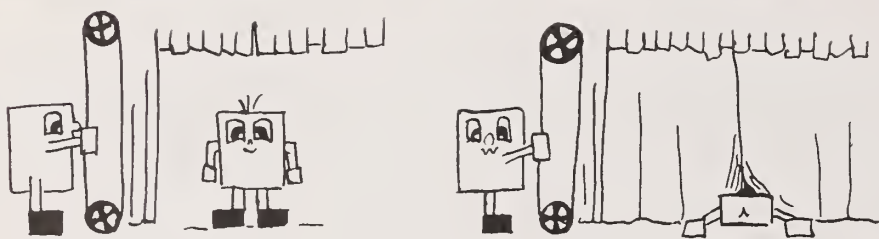

THE THESPIANS

Dramatics

It's little Nell on the railroad tracks with an oncoming train, but-da-da-da it's Dudley Do-Right to the rescue. Curses! Every play has its hero and its villain; but those of Braintree High aren't that corny. The Dramatics Club offers a place in theater production for all: scene-painting; costumes, or make-up. All are rewarded in the end by the all but docile cast party.

Stage Crew

Where's the props? The spots don't work. That's not the curtain pulley—Oh, no! Stoppp thhhhattt beelll frommm ringggg, it'sss drivinggg me crazy.

It's all in the day of a member of the stage crew. He collects props, constructs sets, illuminates the stage and does all things necessary for the proper behind-the-scenes production of assemblies and plays given by the Dramatics Club.

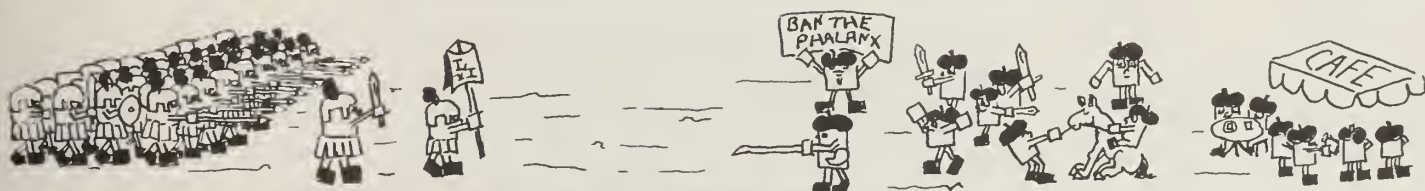

THE INTERPRETERS

French Club

Parlez-vous Frenchie? If not, you'll have trouble understanding the meeting. You won't be able to participate in the skits famous for such characters as Santa Claus and his bonds for Israel, the very prim and proper young miss who clomps across the stage in size 20 sneakers with a Lacrosse stick, and phantoms of past, present, and future, the lady mechanic with the monkey wrench. You also wouldn't understand how the man on the stretcher died from being hit on the head by a bag of money. You'd miss the field trips and the refreshments. You'd miss a lot of fun and a feeling stimulated by the realization that a lot of people wouldn't know what you were saying when you speak French.

Junior Classical League

Anybody for a toga and a slave? How about a chariot and olympics? Would you believe a cultural talk on roman art. Well, JCL'ers indulge in all the activities. Not only do they speak Latin in skits and games but they all dress the part with originally designed togas. Official initiations are held for all inductees who are sworn into membership. Members may attend state and national conventions where chariot races, olympics, fashion contests (togas, of course,) and spelling bees in Latin are all held. The best part of JCL is saved til the end of the year when an actual Roman Feast is held. One may buy a sophomore slave and indulge in the various nectar and ambrosia offered. Anyone who enjoys Latin will enjoy J.C.L.

Future Nurses

If someone had a severe head cut, what would you do . . . That's right. A tourniquet around the neck. The Future Nurses not only learn the various facets of their future career but also aid various students who turn up at the health office with severe cases of oral talkitis, paper due-itis, test-itis, and gym-itis. All in all, they are a dedicated group of students who want to seriously discover how promising their chosen profession is.

Future Secretaries

"I'm sorry, sir, but what you want is a lap-dog, not a secretary." Not only does FSA aid the future secretary in coping with situations such as this, but it also acquaints the student with various aspects in this career field. In FSA, students learn such things as "discovering and restraining the office wolf," "conversation topics for meetings at the water fountain," and "rigging the time clock." Actually, topics aren't quite this diversified; but these girls learn a great deal about their future jobs.

Future Teachers

"Hey, you, sit down. Stop throwing spit-balls. How did you manage to get them all wrong?" As this collection of future teachers sit and contemplate this scene of things to come, they also learn that teaching isn't all bad. By the size of this group, there are either many prospective teachers or refreshments are served after each meeting. As a reward for their perseverance through the year, seniors get to visit the "restricted areas" of their old schools and are enlightened as to the true function of a teacher.

Office Staff

What? You just came in late and you don't have a note . . . No, I don't take bribes. You can't see him; he's on the rampage. What's his name? It's all in the day of a member of the office staff, and the best thing about these young ladies THEY'RE SENIORS. They listen to sob stories and stories sob. They are willing to aid, assist, and help any good senior who turns up in the office. They even help teachers. They're a group of girls who both sides of BHS, human (student) and inhuman (teachers) appreciate.

Library

You want General Sa'ing Toolo's book on the preparation and eating of the east Indian Python . . . It's under History, catalogue number 002031779. Right over there, under the right floorboard. If you want a book, someone on the library staff is there to help or confuse you. They check books out, catalogue shelves, arrange books, and keep the BHS Library in order so that students can readily obtain needed information.

Audio-Visual

A filmstrip projector in 1012 . . . A film in 347 . . . a screen in 217 . . . edit this film . . . this one's wound up backwards. Confusion, confusion, but somehow these boys keep the teachers supplied with the materials so that the monotony breaking films can go on. Not only do they distribute projectors and films so that as soon as we get into class we can have our film; but they also repair broken machines and mend broken film. We are indebted to their promptness for relieving the day to day hum-drum.

Rifle Club

Ready on the right? ... Ready on the left? ... Ready on the firing line? ... Load ... fire! ... Yeowwwww! Whoops. Well, we all make mistakes sometime—but the Rifle Club members have had intensive training, before they even load a rifle for the first time so that the percent of casualties equals about zero. Not only do members learn procedure on the firing line and how to care for their weapon, but all receive individual instruction so that they might attain the most correct form—you've got to be able to stand absolutely still as well as see the target. If you have these things Rifle Club is a blast.

Photography

Have you ever attempted to take a picture of BHS while hanging by one foot from the flagpole in order to get the appropriate aerial effect? Have you ever enlarged a photo of a lizard colony and then had one of the lizards jump off the film, dinosaur size, and attempt to devour you? How about taking a picture of 500 students lined in front of BHS without standing in the middle of Washington St. trying to get them all in. Well, the members of the photography club have all attempted feats and experienced plights such as the above.

Student Council

Who are the leaders of the school, the perpetrators of student thought, and the originators of honorable ideas. It's the Student Council. This group is comprised of the most active and most respected group of students at B.H.S. They are elected by the students and represent all the qualities of the "good" teen-ager. Not only do they express student opinion, but they originate projects which are worthwhile school and community activities. They are the leaders of the school today and tomorrow and will be the leaders of the community in the future.

School Store

"I've got to read Animal Farm for a book report tomorrow ... where can I get the book?"

"I'm cold ... where can I get a sweatshirt? The rally's this afternoon, Where can I get some buttons to sell to sophomores?" The answer—the school store which sells a wide variety of merchandise, specializing in things made especially for B.H.S. If you can't find a book or if you want something which is useful and sports the Wamps emblem, try the School Store.

You should see our buffalo.

Majorettes

Twirl, twirl, twirl ... pick it up off the ground ... over the back, pick it up off the ground ... twirl ... change hands ... pick it up off the ground. The travels of a baton. Actually, the batons do have more ups than downs. The Majorettes who utilize them do, too. The majorettes lead the band, perform at rallies, and exhibit a great deal of skill and courage ... Facing 1500 people does take some fortitude, thus being an essential part of the football season.

Charmin' Chatty

Where'd you hide the band?

Cheerleaders

B ... R ... A ... N ... I ... R ... T ... E ... E—
Yeah, Branitree (?). Oh well, girls. You gave it a good try. It must be terribly hard trying to remember how to spell at 32° below. Then again, those skirts don't do much for keeping you warm. These femme fatales keep up the spirit when the chips are down and keep the yells coming when we're ahead. They cheer at football games, basketball games, and those -eh- rallies. Now School is not complete without cheerleaders and ours are the best!

Orchestra

Blah! . . . Plink, plink, plunk . . . clash . . . doodle-ee-opp. Nope, it's not a train wreck. It's not even a thunderstorm. It's just the orchestra effectively imitating them both—or are they really imitating? Anyway, this talented group meets weekly and does justice to the classical music of the world. The Pops Concert is the event which actually proves how devoted and how good these students really are.

The Boston Symphony

Choir

Do . . . Re . . . Mi . . . Fa . . . Sol . . . La . . . Ti . . . Do. Surprisingly enough, there is a group which can sing this scale and do justice to it—no, not the Boy's Glee Club, the Choir. These young ladies have learned the fundamentals of music and have vocalized for two years before being chosen for this select group. Their individual as well as group talent becomes very evident at the Pops Concert where we can enjoy their harmonious performance.

Batmen

Boys' Glee Club

On a clear day . . . as the voices mesh and the gears grind . . . as the bass suddenly goes slipping up to soprano . . . as the song sounds like a forty-part round, the Boys' Glee Club goes on. Renowned as the Breakfast Club, these young boys congregate in 213 and attempt to vocalize . . . while Bach rolls over in his grave. The best part of all, though, is the refreshments. After each meeting, members circle around and empty the coffee through doughnut holes.

Mrs. Miller's boys

Band

Not enough can be said about the BHS band. They march, march, march . . . play, play, play, and march, march, march again—on warm days, on cold days, on wet days as well as a few dry days. This group plays for rallies, football games, and assemblies. It must be conceded that this group is one of the most important tools for arousing and maintaining the school spirit of every student.

Hogan's Heroes

SPORTS

With the endless energy of the school, its desire for fair play and good sportsmanship . . . There were the memorable occasions on the football field, the excitement of the basketball games, the competition of track and baseball seasons, and the cheerleaders who led the students to loud cheers and the players to greater effort.

What do you mean, "wrong number"?

Darn this crab grass!

Fight! No, just time out.

Here, you take the ball!

Football

But, Coach, they hurt when they tackle.

This beats playing!

Football

Where else can you see a mud-splattered ox trying to make a date with one of Miss Soucaras' dainty young ladies? Where else can you see a tackle trying to play quarterback?

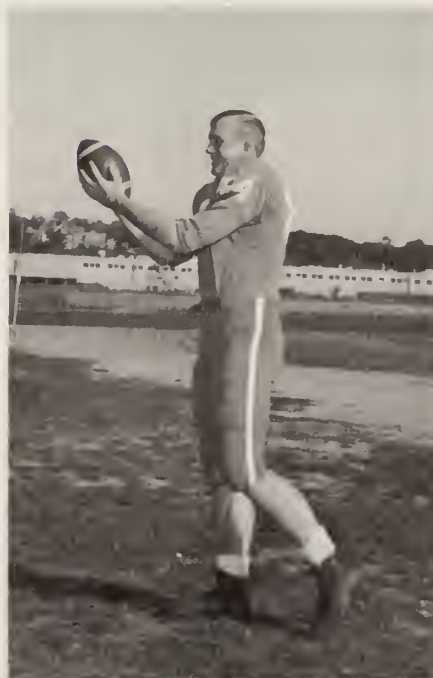

No other football team in the world can boast that it has a genuine "Mail Pouch" poster. And tape . . . some say spirit holds a team together, but I'm sure tape has a lot to do with it, too. The ball of used tape is a permanent fixture in the locker room; it's too big to be pushed out the door.

The football team was truly unique. No other manager could compare with Mr. Beck. The new water-bucket on wheels was beautiful. It even had a mirror so the boys could fix their hair before they posed for the photographer. The highlight of the games was the Pep Club. This group could be seen cheering enthusiastically at every game and each member shouting in unison their cry, "Now coach, now?"

Oh, yes—and there was the team-em, the team.

Cross Country

OK boys! How many did we lose in hit 'n run accidents today? Who fell in what storm-drain? If you people really want a challenging race, we could have the course going north on the southbound expressway lane about 5 o'clock; or we could run the course right over the dump. The one who gets out without being asphyxiated wins. I repeat; it is not permissible to run through backyards. And watch out for low-flying volkswagons! If you love to run and are dedicated to self-motion, cross-country is most promising. (It takes considerable love of and dedication to cross country if one is to survive the daily treks around Hollis Field.) It is also a sport in which the Wamps excel, a fact evident in the Bay-State title the boys again clinched for us this year.

Field Hockey

Hey! Glet your thtick ou'a my mouf . . . Sorry, dear, but we don't issue shoulder pads; how about a helmet? . . . when the thermometer hits thirty below I might consider distributing sweat shirts . . . You girls will kindly stop trying to burn your sticks; it's not that cold . . . Everybody! a lap around the track and try to be back in five minutes. Would you believe it? This is hockey . . . field hockey that is. We hit the ball—10% of the time; we miss the ball—50% of the time; and the other 40% of the time we watch football practice, salute the flag when the band practices the national anthem, and call attention to those team members who innocently forgot to run a lap or ten. After each game, however, all are rewarded by food, drink, and a fast heave, uniform and all, into a freezing shower.

Prepare for aerial attack

Soccer

One . . . two . . . three . . . kick. Bash . . . Pow. Is it illegal to catch the ball in your teeth and run with it? I think I see a big rut in this f..i..e..l.. Hey, that Swede can't even speak English—Vat chu say? What do you mean? A faceoff. If the goalie loses all his teeth, we'll agree to chip in for the bridgework. Well, even if soccer sounds a little brutal, it sure has class. It also provides the boy with the biggest feet and flattest head a chance to get out on the field, to learn, and to have fun.

OK—Let's run play 33—you know, the train . . . now do 35 . . . You'll just have to practice punting . . . due to the fact that everyone's left leg is becoming shorter than their right, we will today run around the gym clockwise . . . Skiing and other related activities are prohibited during the season . . . Where'd my car go? . . . No one is to be (splash) thrown (splash) into the showers (glub) todayyy . . . Since we have an astounding 16% foul shot average, we will today work on . . . and so goes Girls' Basketball.

Boys' Basketball

The only team that can compete with the football team for the number of roles of tape used . . . It's a wonder the basketball team wins games when during the practices they have to fight the girls basketball team off the court, try to do laps while avoiding Mr. Beck's weight lifters, make sure that they don't dribble through a cheer being practiced by either one of the cheering squads, and make a final check on the baseline to make sure they don't run straight into one of Mr. Richardi's sweat suit men who are running laps around the whole kit-and-kaboodle! At least this year Mr. Herget is consoled by the fact that he doesn't have to spread towels and buckets all over the court to catch water from the once leaky roof . . .

Boy's Gymnastics

This year's gymnastic team again showed its winning ability under the direction of Coach Schuhwerk. Losing only one meet, they have again become chief contenders for the state championship.

Dogs and gas(?) were the high points of this year's competition; falls and injuries, of course, the low.

If I swim faster, I'll break the meet record.

EE—EEK! Who's in that shower? Look, there goes another "bunny." The Braintree Girls' Gymnastic Team looks like one big Johnson & Johnson ad. Each of our bunnies has had at least one injury. ## Ice Hockey

Webster defines "to win" as "to gain or triumph in competition or contest." We did just that. We may not have had a perfect record, but whether ahead or not we never gave up. This took plain guts.

No one will forget the spirit displayed at our victories. Gloves, sticks, and helmets were strewn on the ice while we carried away the backbone of the team—our goalie . . . We used more tape than Blair General Hospital . . . On the way to practice we were many times mistaken for America's entries to the Grand Prix . . . We received enough stitches to sew one of our faithful cheerleader's uniforms . . . We topped all attendance records, including the Stanley Cup's record of last year.

To us it was a winning season.

Tony's Tigers may have forced over-time shifts on Johnson & Johnson, but it was worth it—how else can strong, able bodies become weak and disabled. Sweatsuits, dehydration, and that sickly look can quickly be forgotten, however, when one remembers "The Girl Watchers Theme", the friendly "refs", and—oh, yes—"chicklets."

SENIORS

Friends make the most routine days more enjoyable . . . friends to share a joke with before the first bell . . . to talk with between classes . . . to confide in at lunch . . . to tell your troubles to after school . . . yes, it is the students that make the school what it is.

Class Will

We, the class of 1967, being of sound mind and memory (so we are told!) do fully and voluntarily take it upon ourselves to dispose of all our earthly and imaginary possessions in this document.

LINDA ACKERSON bequeaths her black leotard to any girl of the future gymnastic teams. DAVE BARLOW leaves a year's supply of rawhide for one wrist and corresponding ankle. ROBERT SMART leaves the entire script of "How to Succeed Without Really Trying". ALAN TAUSCH leaves his slide ruler to anyone who knows how to use it. JEAN BENNETT leaves the grace of a woman and the manners of an angel. BETSY WHITTUM leaves the record of the only girl with the highest blood pressure on the girls' basketball team. DONNA PARLEE leaves a complete and unabridged paperback of the similarities and differences of Napoleon Bonaparte and Julius Caesar or the difference between French and Latin lovers. STEVE HARVEY leaves his invitation to every party in and out of Braintree. RUSS MONAGHAN bequeaths his wild clothes. RAY ROSS AND RICHARD SANTACKAS leave a complete course of Dancing Lessons. DEBORAH DOUGLAS leaves like her sister Eileen—with the boys. JUDY LEONE & DALE LAVANGIE leave all their business notebooks for next years seniors. JEAN RIZZO, JOANNE RIZZO, AND ALICE SORAGHAN leave three vacancies in the surf college mixers. ELLEN REARDON leaves her spots to any leopard. SUE RANDOLPH leaves a year's supply of batons for any practicing Wampette. "LARRY" BAKER leaves his team teacher studies for teen bleacher buddies. TOM GIBBONS leaves his summer blonde all winter long. CHARLOTTE PURPURA leaves her long curls to Shirley Temple. CORINNE KENNEDY leaves friendship, scholarship, leadership, and courtship. SUE PAPCSY leaves a vacancy on the School Committee to anyone who is smart. BRUCE CHRISTOFI leaves with the snake charmer's daughter. BOB SUTTON leaves Mlle. Richards. RICHARD YOUNG leaves his Chinese laundry. PAMELA FOLEY leaves the etiquette lessons of J.R.P. for future debutantes. CHRISTINE FAHEY leaves at 90 M.P.H. STEPHEN CHAMBERLAIN leaves as the only one ever able to extinguish the light from "the lamp of knowledge". PHIL HOAGLAND leaves the basketball team still trying to find another "Jolly Green Giant." KATHY HYLAND leaves her license plate number to brainy raiders. JANET ENGSTROM bequeaths the Yearbook to next year's editor. LYNNE SJOSTROM leaves rubber on every street in Braintree. WAYNE HOLMES leaves with Margaret Meaney and their surfboard. RICHARD BENSON leaves without pardoning his French. JACKIE MCGILLOWEY leaves scratches on Miss Soucaras' car. DICKIE HAUSER leaves a vacancy in the manager's position of the basketball team. CHARLES "BIFFY" ABELL leaves his motor scooter, Cadillac, the pizza oven, the Elm Ski Shop and Braintree Pharmacy to next year's "welfare" students. GENE DIGIOVANNI leaves that special Italian touch. SUSAN CAPPIELLO leaves a year's supply of Lady Clairol, Nice And Easy, and Summer Blonde. NANCY CHURCHILL leaves her expert marksmanship to Annie Oakley. LINDA JENNINGS leaves a year later without P.D. BILL NELSON leaves a slightly tarnished angel's halo. SIMON JAMES leaves on his Honda—to meet the nicest people. CHRISTINE JOHNSON leaves the tennis team, basketball team, and the field hockey team. Who's gonna keep score? JIMMY WALORTZ leaves his lead guitar to another December's child. TERRY KENNEDY leaves her chocolate chip cookies for Mr. Millen. SUSAN PARKER leaves her red locks of Scotland. SUE PRATT leaves her experience at Sheridan's Department Store for all those who consider themselves a model person. LINDA STEWART leaves an entire Parisian wardrobe created from Simplicity Patterns. BILL NEVILLE leaves the most dignified technique of guessing. WALLY CALDWELL leaves the soccer team the honor of having the shortest but most talented player. EILEEN STUART leaves her Tomahawk for next year's staff to pound with. SUSAN THOMPSON leaves her frog. SANDY WACKS leaves a permanent position on the Semino Indian Tribe's Reservation. JANICE BROSMAN leaves the secret of long hair coiffures.

TO THE SOPHOMORES (who need help!): We leave them one copy of Dale Carnegie's HOW TO WIN FRIENDS AND INFLUENCE PEOPLE.

TO OUR SUCCESSORS, THE CLASS OF 1968: We leave a complete stock of our talents and shortcomings, our sighs and agitations, our happiness and lamentations, and the hope that they may continue the path crossed by the Wampatuck.

TO OUR FACULTY: We leave infinite patience, fortitude, and determination to withstand the onslaught of future classes.

WE, the undersigned, in witness thereof, hereby affix our seal to this, our last Will and Testament.

Class History of 1967

The task of writing this brief history of the Class of '67 is not only an honor, but also an opportunity to recall to all of us the fun, the work, and the achievements of our high school days. The only sadness it brings is that in so little space, it is impossible to record the smaller, yet finer and more memorable, incidents which have passed. The little acts of kindness and self-sacrifice, the true friendships, and the mutual respect and understanding which have developed while working together will always be remembered as a part of these three years at BHS.

As Sophomores . . .

Two bits, four bits, six bits, a dollar, All good sophomores stand up and holler!

BOO!

Sound familiar? Our pride took a beating during our first few weeks as underclassmen—finally finding our homerooms at 8:15, deciphering IBM programs, learning room 108 is not in the Hollis Building, asdfjkl;ing our way through Typing 1, discovering the location of the cafetorium after lunch period was over, meeting Mr. Rogers . . . Amid this turmoil, we elected Clayton Marstin, President; Kathie Reddy, Vice-President; Rosellen Zanelli, Secretary; and Donna Parlee, Treasurer. With a voice in Student Council, we now didn't hesitate in letting ourselves be heard. In the winter, we were ecstatic to find square dancing featured among our courses. "Because, just because" and "gents star right" were heard mingled with phrases such as "Get off my foot, you clod!"

The spring was highlighted by the Sophomore Social, which was the climax of the season. It was our first initiation into the social life of the high school, and we now had the Junior and Senior Proms to look forward to. To finish our year with a bang, remember our private fireworks display from the rubbish barrel during a lunch, one June day?

Our Sophomore year was a lesson in humility, hard work and preparation for the two years to follow.

As Juniors . . .

There's something satisfactory about your junior year—after all those months of being teased and bullied, finally it's your turn. You're half-way there. Now is the time to think about the future; will you go to college or to work after graduation? Of course, our junior year wasn't all serious thinking and planning. Remember when we bought our class rings? After spending weeks choosing color, size, design, and style (such decisions!) we all settled back to wait until Christmas. Finally the day arrived, and for the next few days, everyone opened doors with their right hands.

"Operation Kim," a student council-sponsored project to finance a Korean boy's education, was introduced at Braintree High before Christmas vacation. Everyone gave generously to this worthy cause which made Christmas a little brighter for someone.

Winter 1966 brought us another invitation to the Tech Tourney. While many loyal fans watched breathlessly, the Wamps lost out to Melrose in the finals, despite Mr. Herget's legendary socks. Oh, well . . . However, our spirits were soon lifted at the prospect of our next course in gym—First Aid! This program was designed to teach us how to make an arm sling, give artificial respiration to a dummy, and to care for possible victims of square dancing.

In the spring, B.H.S. juniors put aside their transistor radios and experienced a different type of music—played by the Boston Navy Band. They really swung with foot-tapping numbers and stirring marches. The Junior Prom was the result of weeks of preparation. The art committee transformed the gymnasium into the Magic of the Myths. We were received graciously by the welcoming committee and spent the remainder of the evening dancing. This was the first opportunity that most of us had to wear gowns to a formal event, and the sight of classmates in long gowns proved a memorable one. We parted with our friends in the Senior class with the realization that we would have to take their places next year. We knew that this was a challenge, but we were willing to try.

As Seniors . . .

In September we entered the High School for the last opening day, imbued with the spirits of Veni, Vidi, Vici (We came, we saw, we conquered.) We were seniors now; we were on the home stretch. Now it was OUR turn to razz sophomores and ignore juniors. But the bitter-sweet taste of revenge soon subsided as we began to settle down to the serious work. The pace became almost frantic as we realized that this was THE term, the one which would be entered on our college transcripts.

In the first important election, Karen Green was chosen as Homecoming Queen. The football team did well that day, tying Walpole. Now the Turkey Game loomed ahead, and the big question of whether or not we could beat the first place Milton team was almost pushed under the rug. The Wampmen came through, however, with the biggest upset of the season. The cross country team took home the Bay State League title for the third consecutive year, a feat never before accomplished in this state. The soccer team also played a key position in the fall sports at B.H.S. during our senior year. After gaining a 2-2 come-from-behind tie with Wellesley in the opening game of the season, the team proved its power as it captured second place.

Now the snow began to fall lightly, and it was time for seniors to be merry-makers at Santa's Ballroom at East Junior High. The party was a huge success with Santa, Peter Kusser, handing out small Christmas presents to all those who had worked hard.

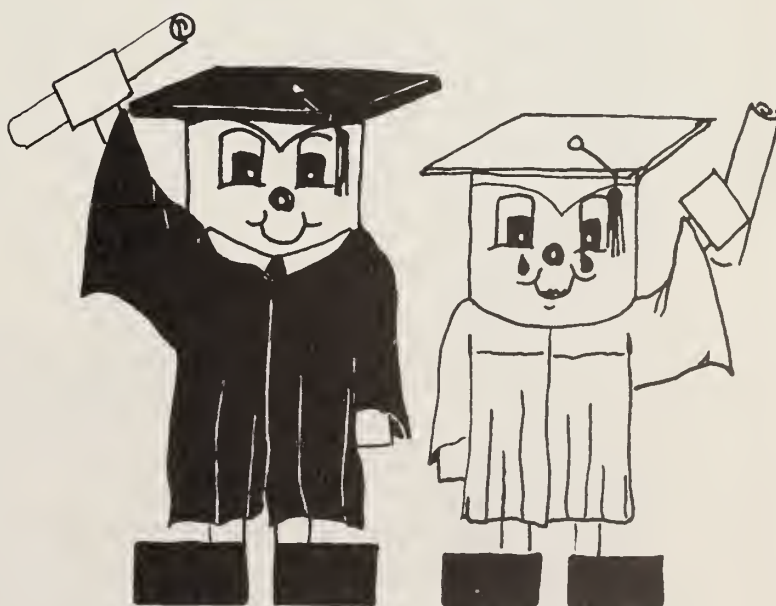

The usual campaign fever began to rise as the election for Student Government Day got under way. The end results of this hectic, well sponsored campaign was that Bob Smart found himself in the State House. But the election for Student Government Day was not the only reason for the growing anxiety in seniors. Everyone was waiting to hear from the college of his choice, or local draft board, or employment agency.

The spring ushered in a season of hope for us as seniors. Graduation appeared in the not-too-distant future, and Senioritis set in. Anticipation of an event is always the best part, and we eagerly awaited the festivities ahead. The Senior Show set the pace for the exclusive senior activities. Written and directed by members of the senior class, it turned out to be a great success.

Now it was time for the Senior Prom. Held at King Philip's, students shed their ordinary attire, and went incognito in their formal garb. After greeting each member in the receiving line, we had the remainder of the night to be with our friends for our last social gathering. The prom will always be remembered in the heart of each senior.

In the frantic weeks preceding graduation, we experienced mixed emotions: relief, sadness, and a little apprehension about the months to come. We had come a long way since September 1964. One whole chapter of our lives had come to an end. On graduation day, we gathered for what was to be our last time as a group and sang the words of our Alma Mater: "All hail to Braintree High!"

FEATURES

The student himself is the master key, not his teachers, family, or friends. If he utilizes all of his God-given gifts—his own talents, abilities, and determination—he can successfully unlock the doors for a bright and productive future.

Homecoming '67

War bonnets (thanks to the cheerleaders); riot rallies (thanks to the cheerleaders); half a parade (led by the cheerleaders); a tie football game (thanks to the cheerleaders?); the queen "squaw" competition (thanks to the cheerleaders); plus an Indian Summer Dance (thanks to the cheerleaders)—all represent exciting memories of Homecoming Weekend given to us by the cheerleaders, of the cheerleaders, and for the cheerleaders, who shall not perish from this school, just the "sub" shop.

Do you remember going to see those silly teachers making fools out of themselves? Ironically enough two of the most serious drives for money in the school resulted in many laughs. Baby face Lague looked like he would collapse dribbling down the court under those skinny legs. The Hulk with his savage stick slipping on the ice, even his teammates feared him. Soft hearted Marshall could have been taken for a rejected professional. Never will these daring souls live these incidents down.

In Memoriam

EDNA M. PARKER

Two characteristics, a gentle hand and wit, were the reasons Miss Edna Parker will be long remembered in Braintree High. She had the ability to enforce her strictest rules without resorting to anger or threats. Every student felt a genuine respect for Miss Parker. Each of her class periods was flavored liberally with her salty jokes about her "seven boyfriends" and "baby", a cat. Despite the pain and suffering Miss Parker experienced throughout the last months of her life, she remained as cheerful as in former years. The entire school feels an emptiness that only the loss of a lady of this calibre could entail.

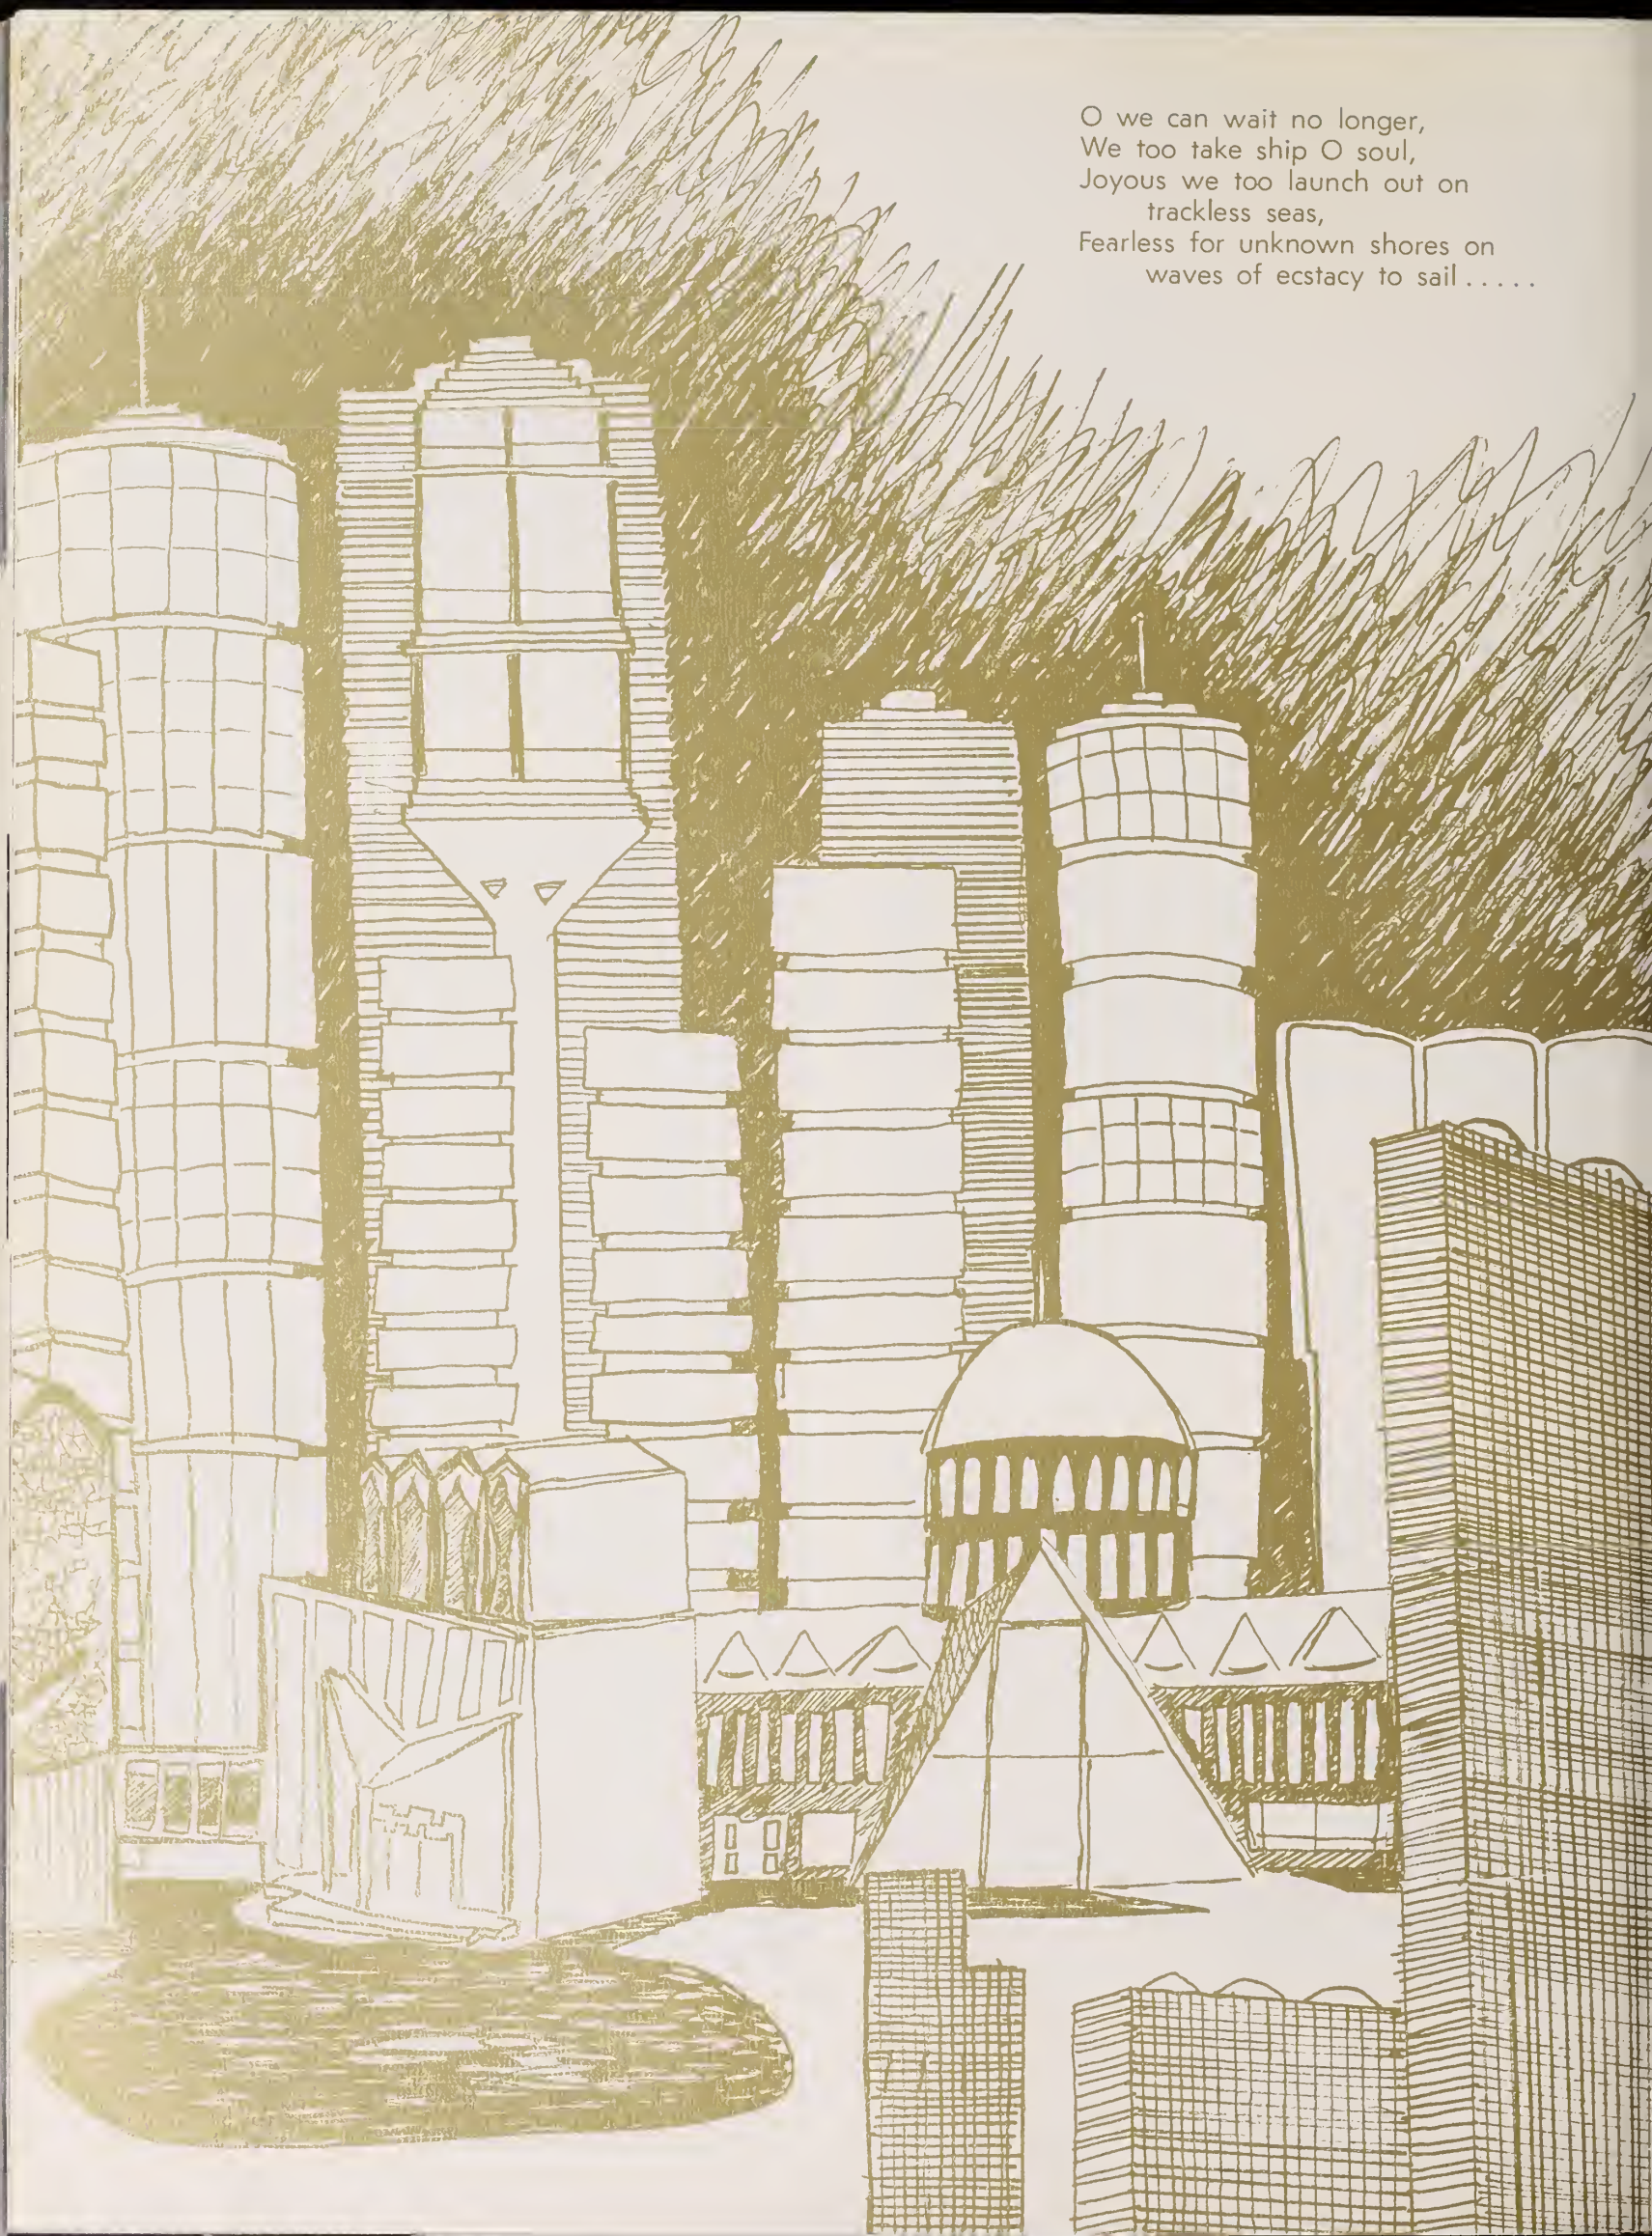

It may be said that Mr. Boussy was one of the many well-liked teachers among the Braintree faculty. Perhaps this is sometimes important, but his success as a teacher and as a department head did not lie in this factor alone. A desire such as Mr. Boussy's to instill in his students an initiative to search for unanswered questions may explain his particular greatness. Throughout his commendable career, Mr. Boussy embodied kindness and discipline, patience and fortitude, as well as wisdom and happiness.

O we can wait no longer,
We too take ship O soul,
Joyous we too launch out on trackless seas,
Fearless for unknown shores on waves of ecstasy to sail . . . .

. . . The Greatest Thing In The World Is Not So Much Where We Stand, But The Direction In Which We Are Moving.
